Each of these volunteers, regardless of where they came from, had one single mission: to lend a helping hand to those in need.

Together, they culminated the joy of giving that was evident at the dinner event which was full of smiles and laughter.

THK Colour Their World Exhibition came to the IMM! Families and young children got to experience the rush of adrenaline as their eyes glued to prized catch within the claw catcher machines.

Every attempt was for a good cause! The proceeds from claw catcher machines went towards THK's unfunded services such as free meal centres and free clinics.

The exhibition also offered insight into THK's realm of services for the community and even opened windows of opportunity for those who were keen to serve in the social service sector.

THEY ARE GIVEN PROFESSIONAL TRAINING

Residents of special-needs home winning hearts through lion dance

SINGAPORE – They are not your ordinary lion dancers: They belong to a troupe formed by people with intellectual disabilities and are hoping to win people over with their moves this Chinese New Year.

Looking at the troupe in their full regalia, leaping and prancing about playfully in sync with the clashing cymbals and thunderous drums, one would not have guessed that all nine members are residents of the THK Home for the Disabled @ Eunos, one of the many run by Thye Hua Kwan Moral Charities (THKMC).

Called the THK BraveHearts, the troupe has been around since the 2000s, exposing young residents to new skills.

But last June, the charity's volunteer management unit decided to develop the BraveHearts' potential further by giving them professional training and exposure with the help of veteran dancers from Nam Sieng Dragon and Lion Dance Activity Centre.

Today, the seasoned lion dancers, aged between 17 and 37, perform at various THK internal and external events, such as the Purple Parade. The troupe is also available for "hire" for corporate events, with Keppel Corporation and Singapore Power being among its clients this festive season.

The home's programme executive Low Kai Ling said, "We provide them with the basic needs, but (beyond that), by letting them perform and engage in external performances, it's a huge boost to their self-confidence levels and self-esteem ... (They) feel good when people tell (them they) did a good job."

Nam Sieng's volunteer instructors were initially concerned about them being able to teach or communicate with the residents effectively. Mr Lawrence Tan, 41, said their uncertainties were quickly eased when they realised the residents were "not much different" from the other lion dancers they train.

The key difference is while it would normally take most people one day to master the steps, these residents need five or six days. And they need simpler instructions. But they "try their best and have a lot of heart", said Mr Calvin Loke, 38, in Mandarin.

Putting in at least 12 weekly training sessions, the BraveHearts eventually dazzled in a shimmering LED-lit costume and clinched second prize in THK's internal talent competition last October.

Troupe member Johnson Dass Maniam, who has intellectual disability, anger management and behavioural issues, does not mind the physically strenuous and gruelling sessions given his love of sports.

Besides playing badminton, volleyball and football at the home, he even competed in the Equestrian section of the 3rd Singapore Special Olympics Games in 1993 and the 5th National Special Olympics Games in 2001.

The 35-year-old, who appears as the lion head, never fails to get excited whenever he gets to perform, and is always attentive and focused during training sessions, said Ms Low. She said with a laugh, "He's always concerned about his costume, (what colour it will be) and getting to dress up."

Having to operate the opening and shutting of the lion's eyes poses the biggest challenge to Mr Johnson, but he finds the whole process infinitely rewarding.

"It's fun and interesting when we learn the (lion dance) skills ... It's good to perform in front of everybody as a team," he said, adding that he hopes to win a medal next time.

Adding that it was a good experience for him to pass on his knowledge, Mr Tan said, "(In fact), they are able to absorb faster than some of my other students, (and) it (makes us) smile when we see them enjoying the lessons so much ... We want to show society that they (can succeed at this), just like the (rest of us)."

The latest Enabling Masterplan had cited that while much has been done to get people with disabilities involved in sport, culture and social activities so they can lead active lifestyles and promote inclusion in the community, only a small percentage actually do so.

Speaking to TODAY, Member of Parliament and long-time advocate for the special-needs community Denise Phua said that efforts in the last decade have been mostly geared towards addressing "essential services" such as schooling, transport and healthcare. "People with special needs, like the rest of us, also deserve a quality life that covers sports, arts and other recreational and leisure pursuits," she said.

Those interested in hiring the THK BraveHearts for events can contact volunteer@thkmc.org.sg. While the troupe does not charge for its performances, the home does accept donations to support its programmes.

A quote from Minister for Home Affairs and Law, Mr K Shanmugam that narrates the spirit of the work that THK does to help anyone in need with full respect to their race, colour, creed, language, culture and religion.

In his opening address at the THK Triple Celebrations 2017 held at Hilton Singapore, he urged Singaporeans "to look at the dignity in the differences between us and we go beyond tolerance to appreciation".

In light of the recent spate of events in other countries brought about by religious conflicts and extremist ideologies, the racial and religious harmony in Singapore becomes a precious asset that we should protect and preserve at all times.

Minister K Shanmugam officially launched the new logo for the Inter Racial Inter Religious Harmony Nite, in the form of a dove that represents peace and harmony.

Go for Goal

On 10th and 11th June 2017, 20 teams gathered at Kovan Sports Centre in colourful attire, gearing up for the intensive street soccer competition known as Harmony Ball in the Dark.

Un like the usual soccer matches, players of different races and religions had to vie for the soccer ball in the dark. The perimeter of the soccer pitches illuminated in strips of neon lights against the darkness of the night. On the field, hints of light that came from their earned accessories like the glowing shoelaces that shone as the players pranced about.

As the rigorous rounds continued in darkness, the differences between players became negligible, because they each had one thing in common: to score a goal.

Ms Tin Pei Ling, Member of Parliament for MacPherson presented the coveted trophy to La Plata Juniors who emerged as the champions for the Harmony Ball in the Dark.

Welcome Onboard the Harmony Train

In celebration of the Harmony Month and Youth Month in the month of July, THK partnered the National Youth Council Singapore and Moove Media to launch the Harmony Train along the North-East Line.

Singapore is not immune to the looming threat of terrorism that is affecting many parts of the world. Mass transit and public transport networks are easy targets for terror attacks because of the ease of accessibility and high human traffic.

The Harmony Train set out to spread the message of racial and religious harmony to more than 420,000 commuters daily between their places of work, leisure and home.

为配合新加坡种族和谐及青年节，德教太和观与全国青年理事会及Moove Media联合推出穿行于东北线的“和谐列车”，透过多彩缤纷的设计传达出维持我国种族宗教和谐的重要信息。

Unlike our journey on the train, our journey in harmony does not come to a stop. In the words of Minister for Finance Mr Heng Swee Keat, “safeguarding the special harmony and peace we enjoy is a perpetual work-in-progress”.

It takes the effort of all Singaporeans to stand up for Harmony!

CELEBRATION OF RACIAL AND RELIGIOUS HARMONY

THK

6 local and international students from Nanyang Academy of Fine Arts embarked on an experiential journey to learn about Singapore's multicultural diversity through the elements of food, culture and play.

For three days, these students explored places of racial and religious interests, such as the Harmony in Diversity Gallery, a Crisis Simulation tour at the Singapore Discovery Centre, the SAFTI Bus Tour at the Military Camp, as well as Katapult Trampoline Park and SCAPE.

These experiences turned into design inspirations for Harmony Mural Beneath the Stars, an initiative supported by Youth Corps Singapore to transform the façade of the iconic Red Bus into a work of art. Ms Low Yen Ling, Senior Parliamentary Secretary, Ministry of Education & Ministry of Trade and Industry launched the new look of the Red Bus on 4 July 2017 - an illustrated masterpiece that reflected Singapore's cultures, races and religions.

The Harmony Mural was specially unveiled in the month of July to coincide with both the Harmony Month as well as the Youth Month, which is dedicated to celebrating youth energy, diverse talents, youth resilience and youth contributions to community.

A special tribute was also paid to President Tony Tan and Mrs Mary Tan through a commemorative video to thank them for their tremendous support for Inter Racial Inter Religious Harmony Nite over the years.

Global terror attacks, the radicalisation of youths in the international and the local communities and the issue of casual racism in Singapore highlighted the need to strengthen social cohesion among youths.

Supported by the Ministry of Culture, Community and Youth (MCCY), the National Integration Council (NIC), the National Youth Council (NYC) as the Youth Corps Singapore, Thye Hua Kwan Moral Society and the 7 partners - the Chinese Development Assistance Council (CDAC), Yayasan MENDAKI, Singapore Indian Development Association (SINDA), the Eurasian Association (EA) the Inter-Religious Organisation (IRO), Chee Hoon Kog Moral Promotion Society (CHKMPS), and Chee Hia Kog Moral Society (CHKMS) set out on the journey of promoting racial and religious harmony, particularly among youths.

One of the highlights for the night was a cultural performance specially contributed by the Embassy of the Republic of Indonesia to celebrate 50 years of diplomatic ties and friendship between Indonesia and Singapore. Ambassadors and foreign diplomats from 21 different countries were also represented at the dinner event which ended in a colourful wave as audiences flashed the glowing lightsticks, chorusing to the tunes of “Stand Up for Singapore”!

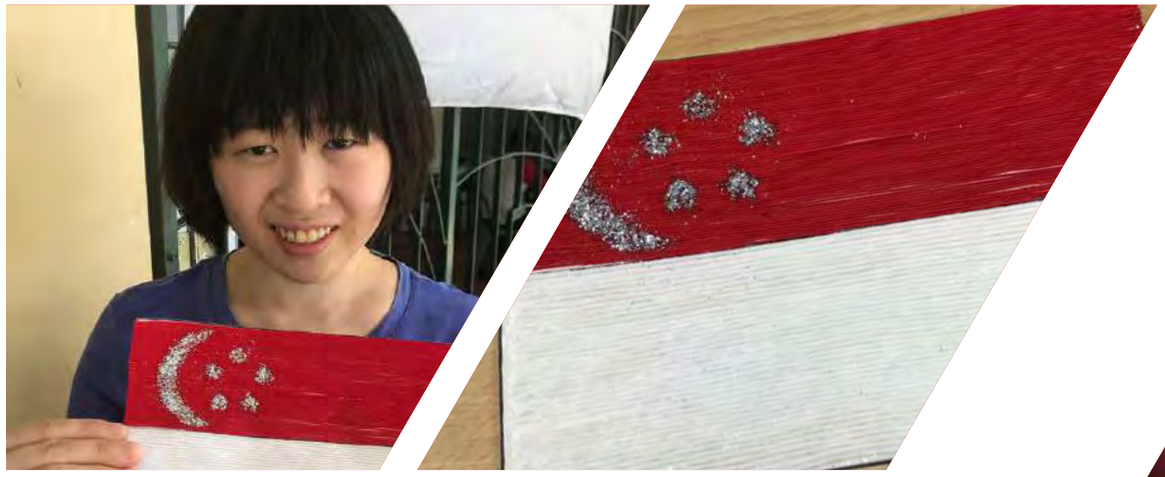
SINGAPORE: OUR HOPES, DREAMS AND ASPIRATIONS

The theme for the National Day Parade 2017 is onenationtogether. Indeed, we belong as one regardless of race, language, religion or abilities. MOMENTS rallied beneficiaries from THK to celebrate with our beloved nation, Singapore – the country that we call home, the place that holds our hopes, dreams and aspirations.

为了纪念新加坡建国52周年，太和观特别邀请了属下机构的受益人通过自我表达的方式，传递对国家的爱。

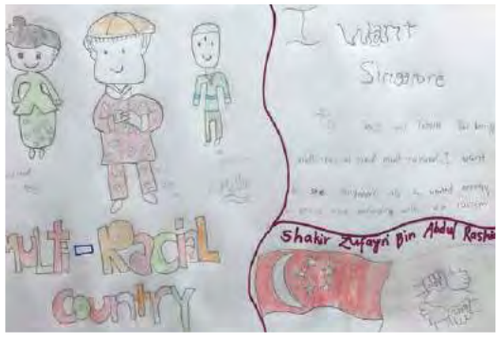


Gan Kai Wei, 27, THK Pan-Disability Centre @ Eunos

Kai Wei has been attending THK Pan-Disability Centre for 6 years. Despite her intellectual disability, she is never afraid to try new things from creating bookmarks to metal tooling.

She loves to interact with her peers and catching up on her favourite variety shows and memorising her favourite songs. She even tried baking cookies at the centre, using the baking tools donated by Tokio Marine.

Her natural knack for arts and craft is evident in the Singapore flag that she created using knitted thread, demonstrating the patience and perseverance, that made Singapore what it is today.



Shakir Zufayri Bin Abdul Rashid, 13, THK Family Service Centre @ Jurong

Shakir participates in dance and futsal activities organised by THK Family Service Centre @ Jurong. He realises that his friends from other ethnic backgrounds may not be well–informed about the Malay culture, hence he likes to share interesting facts about his culture with them as this helps to bring them closer together.

Shakir is wise beyond his years. "If everyone cares to share about each other's culture and tradition, it will help us to understand one another better," he shares.

He wants Singapore to be known not only for our multi–racial, multi–cultural diversity but also an example to the rest of the world where everyone can live in peace and harmony.

Yang Yip Kum, 69, THK Seniors Services @ Taman Jurong

Mdm Yang has been attending THK Seniors Services @ Taman Jurong since its inception in 2012. She is the epitome of active ageing, and regularly shares her passion for arts and calligraphy with her friends. She taps on the books and resources available at the reading corner in the centre, courtesy of the National Library Board's "Value Added" programme to ensure that seniors have access to more books and activities to stay engaged and to promote lifelong learning.

The fireworks display was created using watercolour, sponge, empty toilet rolls and cottonbuds! This results is a creative portrayal of the fireworks that we see every National Day.

Nur Tamara Jessenia, 11, THK Student Care Centre @ Bedok North

"Drawing is my favourite hobby", professes Nur Tamara. She chose to showcase one of Singapore's iconic destinations, the Marina Bay Sands because she liked how the rooftop replicated the shape of a boat.

The Merlion, which is represented by head of a lion and the body of a fish personifies Singapore and traces our roots as a fishing village then as a seaport. The lion head symbolises our native name, Singapura which translates into Lion City.

Interestingly, she incorporated our olden days as a fishing village in her artwork to reminisce about our past as we progress in a modern world. She wants to remind the younger generation not to forget their roots and heritage even as Singapore looks to the future.

A gracious society helps the needy prove their worth

FROM ZHANG ZHI

I came across the report "Residents of special-needs home winning hearts through lion dance" (January 31) tied to the ongoing TODAY Enable Fund, and would like to commend the THK Home for the Disabled @ Eunos for providing professional lion dance training to its residents.

This initiative, done in partnership with Nam Sieng Dragon and Lion Dance Activity Centre, exposes the residents to a unique cultural experience and enables them to take up an active lifestyle.

Being a strenuous group activity, the training likely serves to build up residents' mental resilience and encourages teamwork, boosting their confidence and self-esteem, and preparing them for further integration into the community.

More importantly, the achievements of the troupe's members stand as a strong testament to their immense potential as individuals.

Many of the elderly at Dakota Crescent left behind familiarity and memories, and moved into the new estate at Cassia Crescent. THK's new Seniors Activity Centre @ Cassia aims to bring these seniors together to form a new sense of community and new memories with each other

A SNEAK PEEK INTO THE NEW THK SAC @ CASSIA

全新的太和观乐龄活动中心(加西雅)正式开幕，此次MOMENTS杂志编辑部带您走访活动中心，探讨中心的设施和环境如何让老人更加凝聚在一起，展现其乐融融的景象。

As the seniors move around the newly opened centre, one is reminded constantly that the centre is a mix of old and new. There is a reminiscing corner holding items almost as old as the seniors themselves, right alongside 2 modern massage chairs and 2 leg massages for the elderly to relax in.

On special days, such as the official opening of the centre and National Day celebration, the main hall is used to host the seniors

On regular days, the elderly enjoy watching television together with their neighbours

The new karaoke room awash in green and yellow

Even the karaoke room is a beautiful contrast of the new and the old – the karaoke room is beautiful, looking much like a vibrant ketupat. Nicholas Lee, the centre manager, says that the seniors particularly like to sing dialect and opera songs from decades ago.

The kitchen is another key highlight in the centre, where there are plans of mooncake baking sessions for the elderly. In the meantime, volunteers come over to cook food or make desserts for the elderly.

Nicholas Lee, 36, talking to one of the elderly at the centre. As compared to the energetic, mischievious teenagers at the Boys Town that he used to work with, he says that the elderly are calmer, but fun to laugh and chit chat with

Before he came to work with the elderly at THK, Nicholas was working with the rambunctious teenagers at Boys Town, and before then, working in the then-booming oil and gas industry. When asked why he made such a big switch back then, leaving behind a lucrative industry, he explains that he used to stay at the Boys Town for four years.

"Back then, there was a staff who was selfless in helping us out, and he used to be a boy from Boys Town too. He became our role model, showing us that if you really put your heart into making changes, you can make it," he shared. "When they asked me to work at the Boys Town many years later, I wanted to take this chance to give back to the people who helped me, so I made the switch."

His exposure to the social service sector in his time at the Boys Town made him want to know more about the sector. "After I joined Boys Town, I realized that the sector was much bigger than I thought it was. I decided to join THK because it was huge, and had helped so many different people," he says.

Keeping the elderly engaged and happy is one of Nicholas' hopes for the centre

"I'm the kind of person who likes to do ground work, to feel the impact that I make. When we first started the centre six months ago, we had to go door to door every day to speak to the elderly to build relationships with them," he comments. "Seeing more elderly come down to the centre is encouraging, and my hope is that more of them will come forward to interact with people rather than be cooped up alone at home."

主持东北线'和谐列车'通车仪式

王瑞杰：维系种族和谐犹如一趟旅程

财政部长王瑞杰指出，维系种族宗教和谐犹如一趟旅程，驶向同一个终点就像拥有共同的目标，不同背景的搭客可在行程中互相沟通了解。

王瑞杰今早为东北线的"和谐列车"主持通车仪式时表示，防范分裂和促进和谐必须谨记三个事项：

●大家虽然来自不同背景，但犹如列车带大家驶向同一个终点站，大家都有共同目标，希望家园是个和平的居住环境；

●大家可在乘车过程中互相沟通交谈，了解彼此，以开通的想法分享和听取不同的观点；

●就像列车天天行驶一样，捍卫我国独有的和谐与和平永不停止。

全长165米的"和谐列车一(Harmony Train)"由德教太和观和全国青年理事会携手推出，以种族和宗教和谐作为其中三个车厢内部布置主题的列车，今早从地铁东北线的港湾终点站起程。列车将在接下来的六至八周里，每天在东北线行驶18个小时。

这是太和观13年来主办"种族宗教和谐联谊晚会"的活动之一，获得全国青年理事会的支持。

庆幸及时发现极进化青年

幸好及时发现自我极进化的青年，才让青年和国人免受伤害。

王瑞杰说，分化现象威胁了国人目前享有的和平，维系和谐的重要性是今年的活动重点。

"近来，种族和宗教间的分化引发了恐怖袭击一曼市，伦敦，布鲁塞尔及靠近我国的菲律宾。看见和平的友国和邻居的遭遇令人难过。"

他指出，我国近来有年轻国人通过网络自我激进化，试图参与摧毁性行动，令大家感到震撼。

"看见这对他们的友家人造成的痛苦令人到痛心。但所幸我们在们对自己和他人造成伤前，及时发现这些情况。"
